FOREWORD

Perhaps the most difficult task in the putting together of a yearbook is the selection of an appropriate theme. In these trying times there is a pressing need for understanding, awareness, and unity, and because such things are most often accomplished through love, the staff feels that LOVE is the most appropriate of themes for the 71-72 edition of the Le Diable Bleu.

A yearbook is a display of campus life in a picturesque fashion. The staff has attempted to instill, in the following pages, every aspect of campus life. It is our hope that our endeavors have not been in vain. We further hope that our efforts will not be forgotten and that this yearbook in the coming years will not be haphazardly tossed in some remote corner to collect dust. But rather it will be proudly shown to friends and relations as being indicative of all the elements that compose a successful school year.

We humbly submit this edition of the Le Diable Bleu to the administration, faculty, and staff, and the student body; earnestly awaiting your response.

LOVE

The word 'love' in the past has been, and still is, the topic of countless books, poems, and currently motion pictures. Although it is composed of only four little letters, the definition of love has required extravagant phrases, words and certainly an infinite number of letters. Webster defines love as; "a strong attraction between two individuals without regard toward selfish concerns." Edgar Allan Poe wrote; "But we loved with a love that was more than love;" obviously taking for granted that all his readers would be fully aware of just what the term means. In a sense Poe was right, for each of us carries within our hearts personal concepts of love.

Despite a long history of wars, riots, hatred, bigotry, and perpetual uncertainty in the hearts of many; love prevails. Love was prevalent in biblical times when David wrote in the 103rd psalm, "who redeemeth thy life from destruction, who crowneth thee with loving kindness and tender mercies," and love is prevalent today as Erich Segal writes, "Love means never having to say you're sorry."

There have been times when we've concerned ourselves with individual gains, forgetting love or overshadowing it with lesser emotions. We sometimes even have the propensity to forget those whose diligent efforts make our presence at Dillard possible. There are those students who have left this institution under the false auspices that the wearing of a natural and a dashiki, the clenching of a fist and the utterance of the phrase, "right on brother" establishes the power needed for the uplifting of an entire mass of people. They have forgotten the millions of oppressed people around the world who are in dire need of their knowledgeable and professional skills.

None-the-less it is my hope, that from the spacious green environment of Dillard's campus, there will arise within the hearts of my fellow students a prolific love; a love that depicts strength, sincerity, and a depth of understanding for all those we encounter. A love that will make us drop individual differences and form a comradeship ardently striving to rid the world of its atrocities.

Love

DR. FREDERICK D. HALL

DEDICATED TO DR. FREDERICK D. HALL

The 1972 issue of The Le Diable Bleu is dedicated to Dr. Frederick D. Hall, one who has rendered tireless service sincere dedication and love to the Dillard Family.

Dr. Hall has not only made significant contributions in the world of music and is considered one of the nation's most outstanding musicians; but his capacity for understanding the multiplicity of today's youth is impeccable.

Frederick Douglass Hall began his teaching career immediately after his graduation from college, but his consistency in pursuing everything that had to do with music and education continued. He earned the bachelor of arts degree from Morehouse College, the teachers diploma from Chicago Musical College, the bachelor of music degree in piano, composition, canon and fugue from the same institution, the master of arts degree in music education from Teachers College, Columbia University, the professional music supervisor's diploma from the same institution. This study was done on a fellowship granted from the Julius Rosenwald Fund. For a 2-year period he did residence work in composition, voice and conducting at the Royal College of Music. Concurrently he traveled in England, Scotland, and Wales in research in music education and folk music. The general education board grant was augmented by a stipend from the Phelps Stokes Fund for research in West Africa where for six months he traced the relationship between the American Negro spiritual and the music of native West Africa. In preparation for in London University's school of Oriental Studies. In recognition of his findings in connection with the African research Dr. Hall was elected a fellow of the Royal Anthropological Institution. His degree, doctor of education, was earned at Teachers College, Columbia University in 1952. At the completion of his final oral examination Dr. James Mursell, director of the department of music stated "The faculty by unanimous vote declared Mr. Hall to be the most outstanding doctoral candidate in music for the year."

Frederick Hall's compositions are numerous, and they are played and sung in all parts of the world. Among his works are included an oratorio, a suite for piano, a fantasia upon Negro spirituals, six volumes of spirituals for vocal ensembles, a volume of Afro-American religious work songs, and a volume of African Children's songs. He serves on many national committees and is a member of the Council of the National Fellowship of Education of the Methodist Church. In this connection he conducts workshops and institutes on church music in many parts of the country.

It has been said of Dr. Hall that he is one of the most versatile musicians that his generation has produced. He has the unique capacity of making a group of untrained singers into an organ-like unit of tonal beauty.

Achievement, eminence and modesty are the key words in relation to this great man. Dr. Hall, we of the Dillard University family, wishing you continued success and happiness, salute you!

Quiet! Conference and Consultation in progress.

Security is . . .

Hey! Wait for me!!

Elementary my dear Watson.

Now that's a good idea girls!!

The test is in five minutes.

Genius at work.

I only said try it not eat it!

PRESIDENTIAL MESSAGE

Love

In Plato's Dialogue, The Symposium, Socrates and the other participants discussed the subject of love and particularly the relationship between knowledge, the human condition and love. It was in this discussion that philosophy was defined as "love of wisdom" and love was defined as that relationship which elevates and enhances the life of man through the unity of knowledge and being. One of the symposium participants, Aristophanes, described the human condition as being a separation of parts as a result of natural cataclysmic circumstances and love as the driving force which seeks the restoration of parts to wholeness. It were as though humans were initially like complete spheres which were sliced in halves and scattered by Zeus. From that time, one after another half has sought its matching half. Love, then, is self-perfection through finding one's completeness and harmony with others.

Nowhere is the relationship between knowledge and love more profoundly and simply expressed than in the enduring passages of St. Paul in his letter to the Corinthians where he said:

And if I have the gift of prophecy and know all mysteries and all knowledge; and if I have all faith, so as to remove mountains, but have not love, I am nothing.

For we know in part and we prophesy in part; but when that which is perfect is come, that which is part shall be done away.

Man finds himself, his destiny, his meaning, his reality in the degree that he unifies and elevates himself and mankind through love. Knowledge is only the intellectual handmaiden which should always serve this final end.

EXPRESSION OF LOVE THROUGH POETRY

OF OUR LOVE

We shall never tell the world
yet all the world will know, of our love.
it is a natural, beautiful love and thus through this natural beauty the world will know and share, of our love.

For as I whisper to the winds, "I Love You" each breeze will blow sweeter.

As I whisper to the leaves, each leaf will dance merrier, and as we love, summers will last longer, the world will become more peaceful, as joy, happiness, and beauty will be the tellers of our love.

Words from the pens of poets songs from the lips of singers beautifully painted strokes will all tell of our love.

For our love is the love of life
the love of nature
the love of man
truly, yes
this is the essence of our love.

EXPRESSION OF LOVE THROUGH POETRY

A SONNET

Let me not to the marriage of true minds
Admit impediments. Love is not love
Which alters when it alteration finds,
Or bends with the remover to remove:
O, no! it is an ever-fixed mark
That looks on tempests, and is never shaken;
It is the star to every wandering bark,
Whose worth's unknown, although his height be taken.
Love's not Time's fool, though rosy lips and cheeks
Within his bending sickle's compass come;
Love alters not with his brief hours and weeks,
But bears it out even to the edge of doom:
If this be error, and upon me proved,
I never writ, nor no man ever loved.

By: William Shakespeare

LOVE AT LAST

I have loved and not been loved,
I have forgiven but not forgiven,
I have wanted but not received,
Yet, I have a lots of love to give.

I have searched for many years yet,
when I love it always brings tears.
Though I am bewildered and sad with this loneliness in my heart, the touch of your hands told me, "Dearest let's not part"
As you sit by my side, I hear your voice,
I see your smile, and I hope we will always be together, both you and I.

It has been so lonely in the past and now, maybe, I've found my true
love at last.

IT'S QUIET

It's quiet
and you are all alone

Waiting

You notice all around you
And
Things mean more than ever
Now
The sun is shining
And
The grass is green

Damn

You dig being alive
so
You relax and enjoy

Then

You hear a sound
And
Your pulse quickens
And
Your excitement grows
And
You wait

Silence . . .

Life appears
and
You embrace

And

You relax again
For
Love has come
And
You wait no longer

Rebuttal (Deserved?)

To openly observe you is a lie. My eyes are closed.

You reject my right to be myself with whomever I choose. You would hold back the stars to fit your own orbits, or allow the ocean

to flow upward. And you would change my heart. Why?

Because

it is not yours.

I am glad it is not my heart.

At least

it is open. So is yours

like the night sky as it swallows up the stars.

in essence of our union/Africaness
(we are an African People)

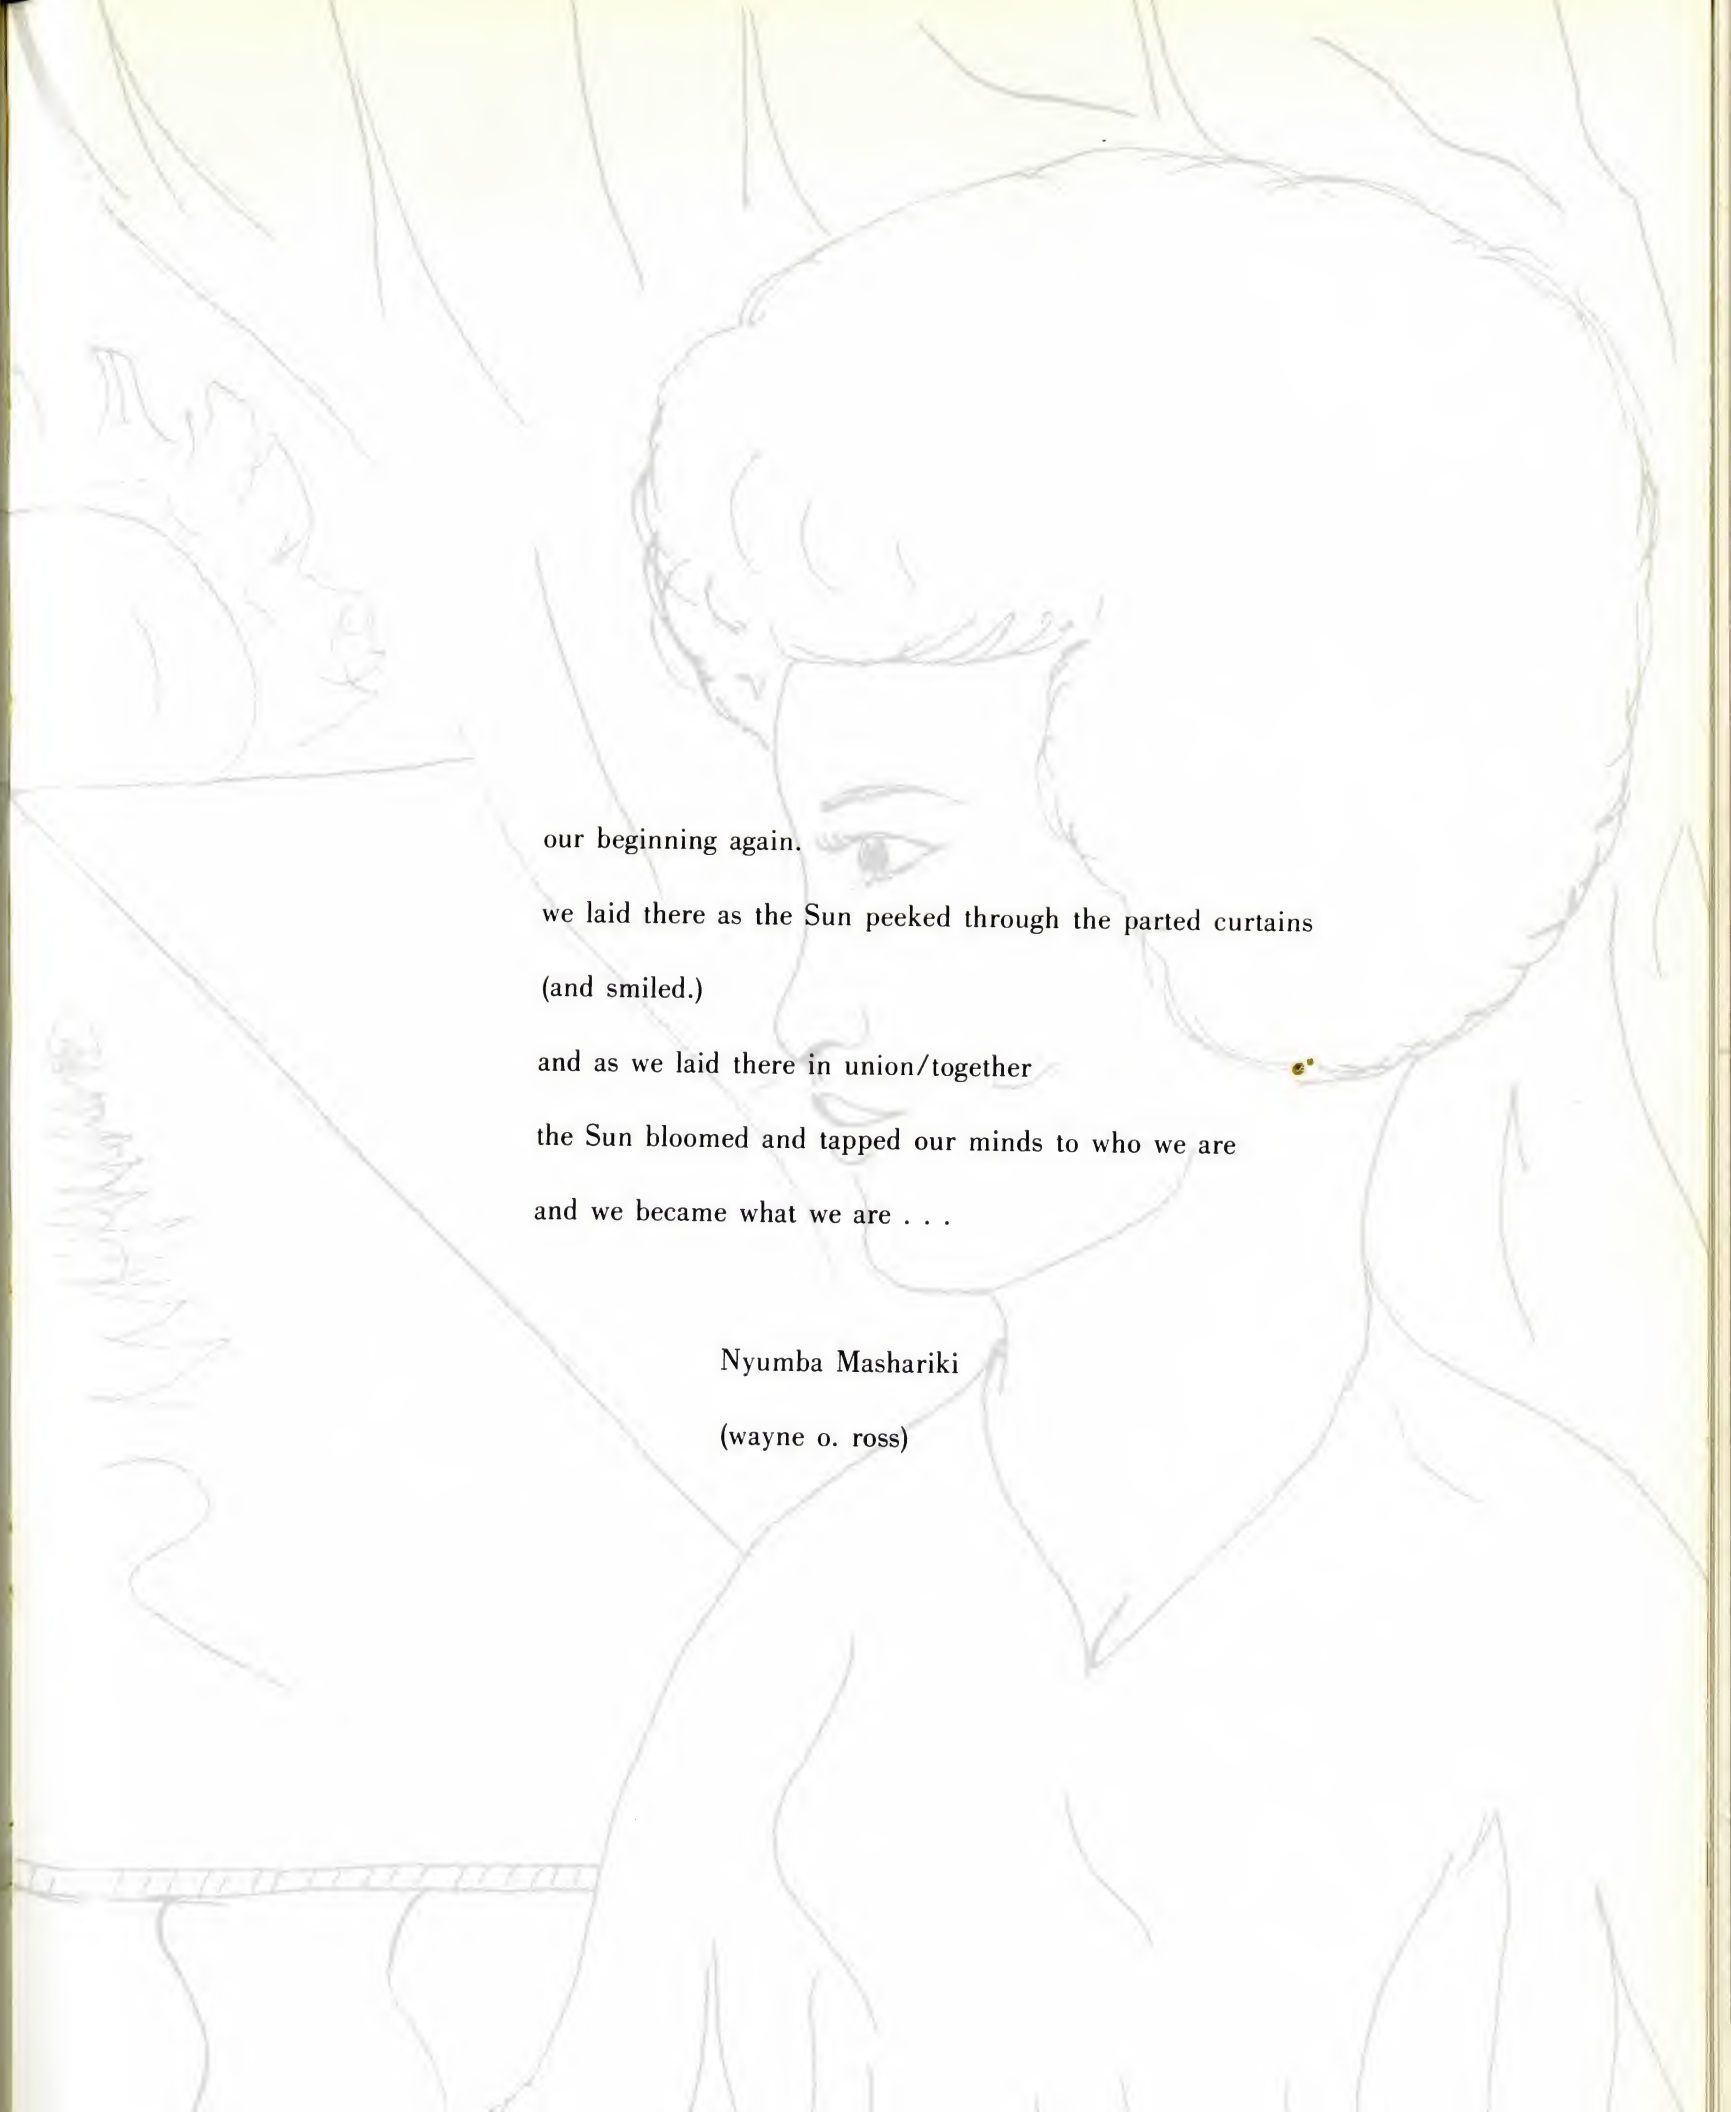

and in the nite

we danced the dances of our ancestors

(Otis cried tenderness but U cried harder.

and in the nite

we step through a few notes and began our beginning again.

we laid there as the Sun peeked through the parted curtains

(and smiled.)

and as we laid there in union/together

the Sun bloomed and tapped our minds to who we are and we became what we are . . .

Well,
you know what they say . . .

Being Black
means being poor.

But — the establishment says when you have a great abundance or something which is valuable — then you're not poor after all

and we as black people have a lot of LOVE . . . Love is valuable.

and as Areatha and Roberta sing

those beautiful tunes

of love,

I see that Black Love is Black wealth and Love . . . when put in the correct category;

is a word that supersedes

all others

PREMONITIONS

"Hey you know how my old dad died? wrapped around the steering shaft of his old pickup.
Well I sleep right on this here beach nights mostly. When they took to get him burned well they wasn't nothing much but just a pile like this here sand. Hey well I been drinking heavy ever since mostly. Hey you spare a quarter or a dollar maybe? I don't eat so easy these days mostly."

Or do you remember that crouching wino in the abandoned shack pitted and shelled
by enemy children,
clutching his two string guitar and grumbling in Mexican? We were walking around then too and sharing our hurts. You made him out a sadder case. It doesn't help. I wished I knew what I should say. I touched your arm. I meant to say I want you. The water
rose and fell on water shining like your yellow hair bright with life in oceaned moonlight. The old cold caught me inside deep. You told me
I was trembling.

The Man In Perspective Program serves to induce and develop the traditional vocal inhibitions of incoming freshmen.

All has not been revolutionized through the MIP program, there is still the prevailing test/examination method used primarily for determining students progress in the classroom.

Modes of past classroom teaching rigidity is only one of the many aspects that has changed since the MIP program has been in effect. Students are now granted the prerogative of more casual attire in the classroom as well as the campus.

ALPHA KAPPA ALPHA

Throughout the years, the zenith of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority has been the promotion of high scholarship and ethical standards. Initiating the organization of sororities among Blacks on January 16, 1908 at Howard University, Washington, D.C., Alpha Kappa Alpha evolves toward the accomplishment of both friendship and unity among college women.

ZETA PHI BETA

Zeta Phi Beta Sorority had its beginning at Howard University, January 16, 1920. Members of Phi Beta Sigma, Charles Robert and Samuel Taylor spoke to a young lady, Arizona Cleavor, concerning the establishment of a sister organization at the University. The young lady willingly accepted the task and immediately began to work upon it. Thus as a result, Zeta Phi Beta was founded as a sister organization of Phi Beta Sigma.

DELTA SIGMA THETA

Delta Sigma Theta was founded in 1913 at Howard University. The twenty-two young women who were its founders envisioned an organization of college women that would minimize the purely social aspects of Sorority life.

Today, women of all races and faiths who meet the requirements in character, scholarship, and citizenship responsibility are welcomed into membership in Delta Sigma Theta. From the small original group, Delta has grown to embrace 20,000 women with 240 chapters in 46 states and the Republic of Haiti.

ALPHA PHI OMEGA

Alpha Phi Omega was born in Brainerd Hall now Hozz Hall, at Lafayette College in Easton, Pennsylvania. The fraternity was founded by Frank Reed Horton on Dec. 16, 1925. Horton's motive for instituting this organization was to initiate one which could withstand the test of time; an organization which men might better the conditions of other men, as well as themselves.

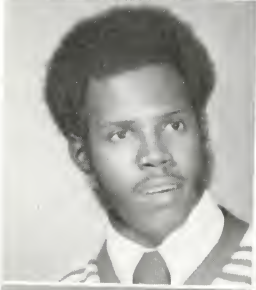

Chi Upsilon chapter, at Dillard University 21 strong, was founded in the spring of 1971, and is an ever growing chapter of Alpha Phi Omega.

Alpha Phi Omega is a national service Fraternity whose aim is to develop leadership, to promote friendship and provide service to humanity.

PRESIDENTIAL MESSAGE

LOVE, LOVE, LOVE	without any witch's
I will reveal	Magic;
to you a	if you want to love potion	be loved
without medicine,	then love.
without herbs,	Heckton of Rhodes

Love, the mystical, transcendental core of man's constant desires and aspirations should be the most identifiable of all elements of human experience. Yet, the very nature of Love makes this potential impossible to realize.

In his "Thoughts and Meditations," Kahill Gibran gives a beautiful illustration of the lack of universality of the love concept. Gibran sets the scene as that of an interrogation by him of passersby at the temple door. Each was queried regarding the merits and mysteries of Love. An old man, emaciated and of melancholy mien considered Love a natural weakness bestowed upon us by the first man.

But, a virile youth felt that Love joins our present with the past and future. A woman with a tragic face sighed out that Love is a deadly poison spewed by black vipers crawling from the caves of hell. Because it seems fresh as dew, the thirsty souls drink it eagerly, only to sicken and die a slow death after the first intoxication.

Then came a beautiful, rosy-cheeked damsel who smilingly said that love is wine served by the brides of dawn. Love strengthens strong souls and enables them to ascend to the stars.

The next to be questioned was a frowning, black-robed, bearded man. He replied that Love is the blind ignorance with which youth begins and ends.

Still another, smiling, declared love to be divine knowledge that enables men to see as much as the gods.

Then a blind man, feeling his way with a cane, said that Love is a blinding mist that keeps the soul from discerning the secret of existence, so that the heart sees only trembling phantoms of desire among the hills, and hears only echoes of cries from voiceless valleys.

Dragging his feet like two rags, a feeble ancient said in quavering voice that Love is the rest of the body in the quiet of the grave, the tranquility of the soul in the depth of Eternity.

It remained for a laughing, five-year-old child to express the concept that Love is one's father and mother, and no one knows Love save they. And so, all who passed spoke of Love as the image of their hopes and frustrations, leaving it a mystery as before.

The analogy between Gibran's philosophical tale and that of "The Blindmen and the Elephant" comes quickly to mind. For, where Love is concerned, we are all truly blinded by selfish motives, whether or not under the guise of altruism or universal brotherhood we fail to so recognize them. Our generation is high on the Love kick. Love as conceived by us would be a perpetual anaesthesia for the ills of the world. Love is the name given to our strivings after better hopes, the pure, the beautiful, the bright, the right, the truth. To us the epigram of Baroness Bertha von Suttner,

After the verb "To Love." "To help" is the most beautiful verb in the world. It is to be hoped that the quest for LOVE and its attendant PEACE become universal — a monument to the activism of this generation of concerned students and others.

"Love is a beautiful bird,

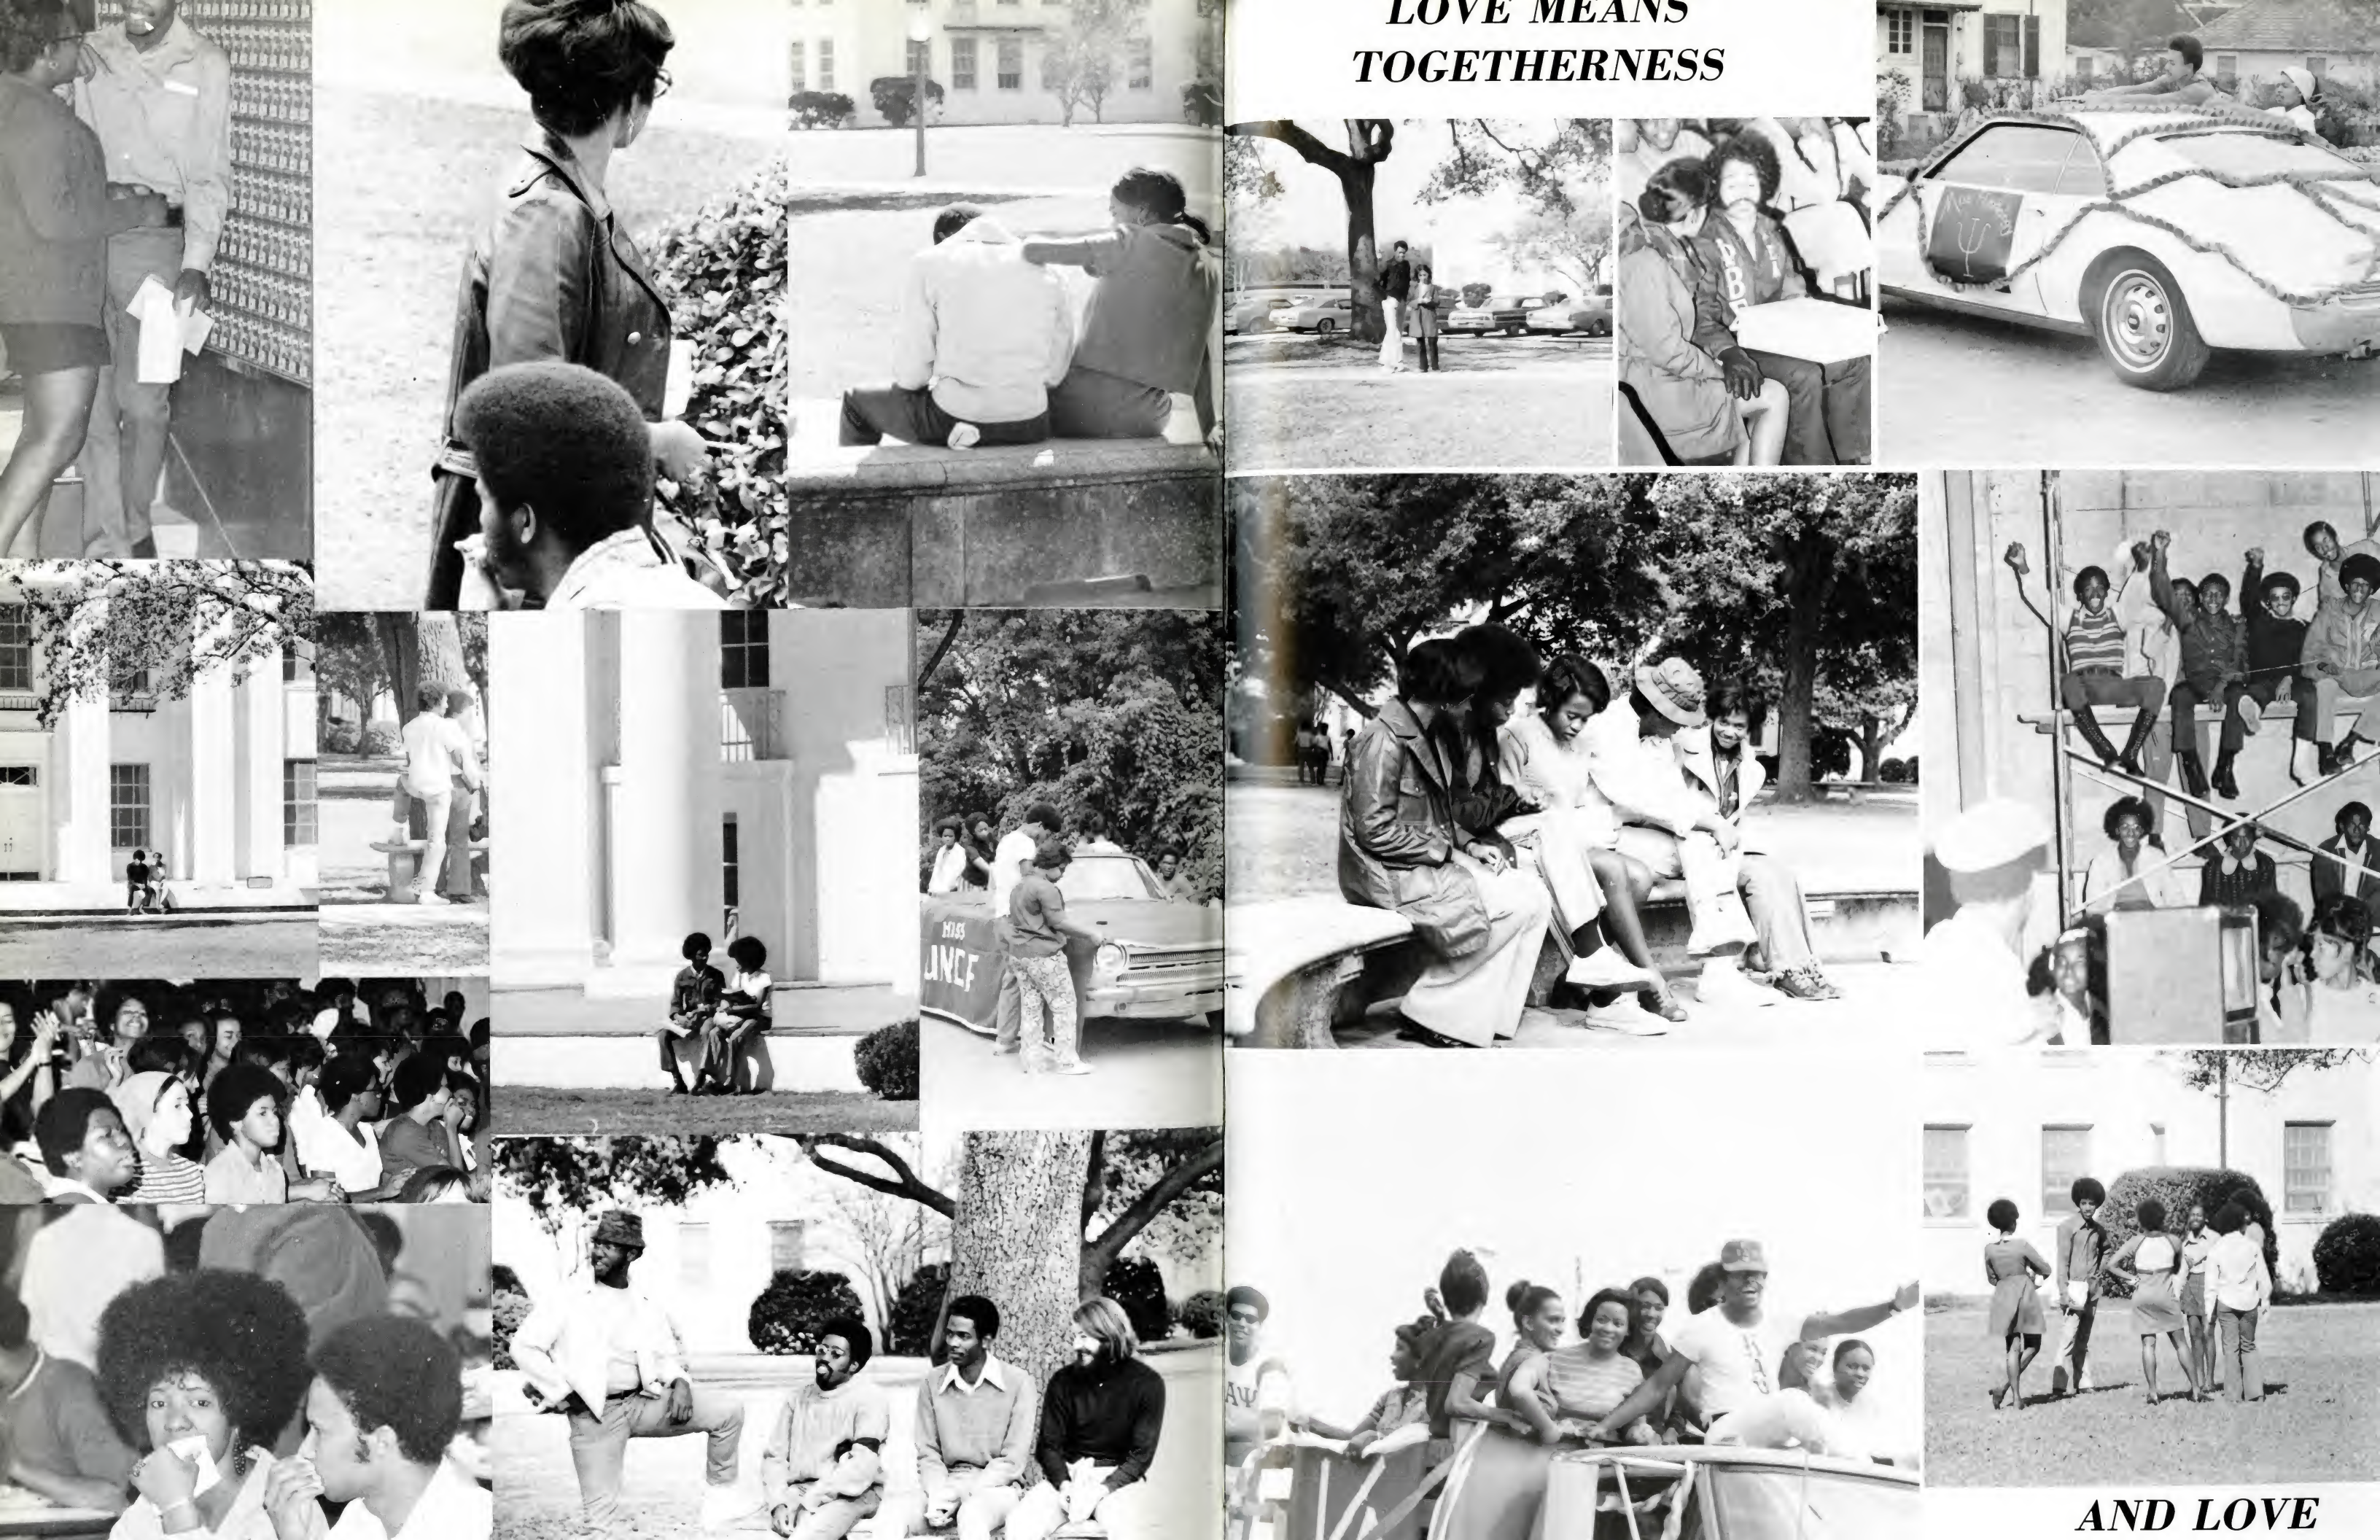

Begging capture,

But refusing injury."
